It's a first: NACS and ENA signed a cooperation agreement on the professional training of civil servants

The National Agency of Civil Servants informs that a cooperation Agreement with the National School of Administration in France (ENA) was signed. The 3-years agreement aims at the development of cooperation in the professional training of civil servants by implementing joint training and exchange of experience activities.

Accordingly, the cooperation between the two institutions will focus on the following fields:

- the continuous training of civil servants in public administration;
- the professional development of persons intending to occupy a public position in the Romanian administrative system, according to NACS strategic choices made by and in compliance with the public sector recruitment system in force in Romania;
- the development and consolidation of NACS institutional capacity in terms of training and professional development;

"I am confident that this first step in collaborating with ENA will benefit both institutions, contributing to the efficient preparation of civil servants in the public administration in Romania and also to increasing the quality of services provided by NACS at the highest international standards", was the message of NACS President, József Birtalan.
